The Charleston News.

MONDAY, JULY 22, 1872.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—The German Government prohibits the sale of books on women's rights.

—The wool clip of Texas this year is expected to be by far the heaviest in both quantity and quality ever produced in that State.

—It is authentically stated that Miss Nillsen's marriage will take place in London on the 29th of July.

—Miss Matilda Phillips, a young sister of Miss Adelaide, the well-known American contralto singer, was to have made her debut in opera at Milan, Europe, on the 23d of June.

—The new postal cards will be three inches wide and five and one-fourth inches long, the stamp and lines to be engraved on them in a variety of colors.

—An appeal, signed by Susan B. Anthony, president, and Matilda Joynin Gale, secretary of the executive committee of the Women's Suffrage Association, takes strong ground for the Grant platform.

—The sale of the Empress Eugenie's jewels in London netted $50,000. Among the prices paid for single articles were $1600 for a watch, $2150 for a pair of brooches, $3525 for another brooch, $2625 for a tiara, and $3255 for a pair of earrings.

—Ned O'Baldwin and Jim Mace are matched to fight for $1000 a side and personal satisfaction. The contest is to take place on the 15th of August. Both men have been in active training for several weeks, and both are reported in excellent condition. Mace is at the Belmont Hotel, near the Jerome Park race course, and O'Baldwin is in New Jersey. If the fight takes place it will be, it is said, one of the hardest on record, as both of the men are inspired by a personal animosity, consequent upon jealousy.

—The importance of the press in a great political campaign cannot be over-estimated, and, as journal after journal put up as editorial inspiration the names of Greeley and Brown, there can be no more gratifying earnest of success. The World, with the independence that has characterized its criticisms, says it has stated fully the disadvantages of making Mr. Greeley the nominee of the Democracy, and now proposes to give some of the advantages, for the arguments are not all on one side. Its nomination being accepted by the whole party, proclaims emancipation in such a manner as to silence doubts and render such ridiculous. The great Liberalizing movement is fully accomplished before the campaign is fairly opened. The Detroit Free Press, which has been a Bourbon of the Bourbons, has swung fairly upon the Greeley and Brown platform before the relentless sweep of the Reform movement, though the acceptance of the situation divides the journal's management. In Columbus, Ohio, a concurrent call by the chairmen of the Democratic and Liberal State committees for a mass meeting to rally the actions of Cincinnati and Baltimore promises to bring out the largest assemblage of people that has been seen for years, and will give the ticket an unshakable foothold. While the Liberal clans are gathering to organize for victory, Grant and his henchmen are struggling with the disaffected at home, trying to mould over the semi-treason of Forney into unquestionable loyalty, and patch up a ticket for Pennsylvania that shall promise fewer disasters for Radicals in October and November than the one their banner now flies over.

—On Friday last, at Hendersonville, North Carolina, Columbus and Govan Adair, the notorious murderers of the Weston family, suffered the extreme penalty of the law for their horrible crime. Over five thousand persons were present. The mother of the prisoners arranged their dress preparatory to the execution, which took place in public. A correspondent says: "The Adairs were calm and self-possessed, and had evidently prepared themselves for a cool exit into eternity. They were scrupulously dressed, and, although ghastly pale, stepped boldly on the gallows and coolly seated themselves, gazing with the utmost indifference around them. Columbus then rose, and, in a loud and firm voice, spoke as follows: 'I feel it my duty to address you briefly: I am to be hung to-day for a crime which, as God is my witness, I never committed. I have been denounced as a bold, bad man, dishonest and untruthful, and have been cruelly slandered. The charges are false. I have striven all my life to do what is right, and avoid the wrong. Balmard, who with us was condemned to die, when he confesses his guilt and involves us, our gray-haired father and boy brothers, has uttered a black and infamous lie to save his own life. I must die. The unjust and unholly to hang me when I am innocent. Probably you have come to see a murderer die and confess his guilt, but you will be disappointed. I shall die with clean skirts. No man need think that I will confess to the commission of a crime of which I am as guiltless as you. And now farewell, my trust is in the Lord Jesus. It is now all in His hands.' Govan Adair followed his brother in a short and pithy address. He said it had been charged they had no friends, but that as a proof of its falsity few men had as many spectators at their death as they had around theirs. They then requested that their coffins, which were placed at the foot of the scaffold, should be opened. After quietly surveying them they announced to the sheriff their readiness to die. The death caps were adjusted, and in a few moments they were launched into eternity."

—Dan Voorhees, the great Indiana Democrat, who, it will be remembered, was the most bitter and uncompromising of all the opponents of Greeley after his nomination at Cincinnati, in the course of a speech to his constituents last week, said: "When I recall and dwell upon these appalling crimes against liberty and against common rights of humanity, I can't wonder at the strong and bitter cry which comes up from the South for anybody to defeat the re-election of the very man who has inspired them. regarded them with grim and heartless satisfaction, and, in many instances, committed them himself. The man who is drowning, or who sees his wife and children perishing in flames, must not be censured for adopting any method, not criminal in itself, by which to save himself or all that is dear to him. I have, therefore, listened with perfect patience to the voice of the South in this crisis, knowing, as I do, her extreme and immediate necessities. Her urgent appeal for the nomination of Mr. Greeley has been regarded by her friends in the North as the last despairing cry of a brave and noble people reduced to a hopeless extremity, beholding, as they think, one more chance to save themselves from a ruin infinitely worse than death. I fervently pray God that this hope may be realized, and many a Northern man will suspend his differences with Mr. Greeley on account of the people of the South who would not do so on his own. They believe the election of Mr. Greeley will afford them relief, and in that belief they have demanded his nomination. It has been accorded more in deference to their condition and their wishes than to any cause. If Mr. Greeley under these circumstances should be elected he will stand pledged by the strongest obligations that ever rested upon an honorable man to bestow upon the South the blessings of a just, kind and fraternal policy of government. If he did not so after the confidence reposed in him by that section he would be accused among men. Let us hope, however, with our brethren in the South that the experiment may be a complete success, that his election may banish misrule and plunder from their midst, restore peace in reality as well as name, bring back a cheerful and contented devotion to the laws of the country, and a pride in the flag which affords an equal protection to all citizens.

Political Co-operation.

It is reported that the Democrats and Liberals of New York State have agreed to nominate Sanford E. Church for Governor, as the candidate of the two parties. Such an endorsement, by the Liberals, of a pure and high-toned Democrat would be a fitting corollary to the staunch support given to Horace Greeley by the Democracy of the Empire State. In times like these forbearance and concession are demanded of the men who unselfishly look to the good of their country. Where the Democratic or Liberal opposition, standing alone, is unable to defeat the Renominationists, the two sections, by acting together, can increase their chances, and, at least, deserve success. Their union in New York will elect the coalition ticket by a rousing majority, and their union in Illinois gives them a fair prospect of carrying that State.

It is worse than useless for an impotent minority to fret out its life in kicking against the majority. Where the continuance in office of that majority does not affect, in its higher relations, the character of the government, the minority may afford to indulge in sentimental politics. But where, as in South Carolina, the rule of the majority is a rule of ignorance, of rapine, and of public and private tyranny, it is plainly the policy of the minority to make such advances as will attract to it a segment of the majority sufficient to turn the scale.

This lesson the South Carolina Democrats have learned, and learned thoroughly. It was hammered into them, and they mastered its practice, as well as theory, two years ago. Yet the disposition of the minority to give way upon immaterial points, and their resolute throwing down of the barriers which were pronounced to be the obstacles to a coalition, have resulted in no substantial benefit. The reason is that the majority of the voters in this State cannot be reasoned with, or convinced by argument. They admit premises and deny conclusions. Their whole policy consists in being "on the other side." Absurd though it may seem, it is more likely than not that the Radical negroes in South Carolina would instantly forswear the title of Republicans, if the white Democrats were to change their faith and call themselves by that name. The grievance now is that the Democrats are not Republicans. Should the Democrats become Republicans, they would be told that no confidence could be reposed in them unless they called themselves something else. In the State canvass of 1870, the Republican platform and the Reform platform, in their recognition of universal civil rights, were identical, and the candidate of the Reformers was a tried Republican. But the majority were banded together only the more securely by the liberalism of their opponents. They refused to vote for the Reform candidate, because the Democrats nominated him. They would not stand on the Reform platform, because the Democrats build it up. No considerable change is worked in their feelings. A Reform movement to-day, originated, organized and conducted by the Democrats, would meet with the fate of the Reform movement of 1870.

The conclusion to be drawn from these propositions is simply this: A Reform movement, to succeed at the election of October next, must be planned and executed by Republicans, with whom the Democrats shall have no other connection than what is involved in voting for their candidates. A section of the Radical majority led by Judge Orr, Major Corbin and Representative Bowen are attacking the Ring with tremendous energy, and declare that only good and upright men shall be put in office. They may or may not be sincere. It is better to lean on a bruised reed than upon nothing. The Democrats or Conservatives must bide their time. All that they now can do is to block the whole game, by rashly dragging Federal politics into the canvass before the State election is decided. This is easily accomplished. The organization of a score of Democratic-Greeley clubs in the next two months will paralyze the tongues of the Radical Reformers, and leave Scott and Moses supreme. Most of these Reformers are Federal officials or hangers-on. Acting under orders, they will strive to smash the Ring; but they will not have a finger against Mr. Grant. And, as they know, any serious Liberal movement in this State would absolutely forbid any course, in local politics, which might split the Grant party. Of course if Charles Sumner and Theodore Tilton, and a few score other "friends of the 'black man,'" will take the stump for Greeley and Brown, no one will say them nay. But even then, for the slim chance of carrying the State in November, the Conservatives would be called upon to give up their hope of a reformed State Government in October. It is evidently the most prudent course to await developments. Non-committal conduct is the wisest and bravest just now. A month or two may clear the situation. Then, without risk, the people can determine what to do.

Good for Forney.

Forney can neither be bought nor forced from his opposition to the Hartranft ticket in Pennsylvania, and it is now generally admitted that the State will be carried by the Democrats in the gubernatorial election and for Greeley in November. In an article in the Press, printed after the conference with Grant, Colonel Forney says: "Neither slander and vilification, nor entreaties from the 'mistaken friends of President Grant, nor 'proffers nor threats of any kind can induce 'us to stultify ourselves and violate the 'tacit compact between the Press and its 'readers, by which we are bound not to 'recapitulate the election of men whose unfitness 'is plainly established.' This admits of no equivocation.

German Unity.

The Germans are talking of celebrating the 2d of September as a day of national rejoicing, and, indeed, of making it a regular anniversary occasion to commemorate German unity in the same way that our Fourth of July is celebrated each year in memory of the achievement of national independence. The reason of selecting the 2d of September for that purpose is that this day is the anniversary of the capture of Sedan. But the South German Post, in acknowledging this to be a worthy date for German unity, declares that only when the German people "shall have won full liberty" will they be entitled to celebrate a festival day like to our own—a festival of free citizens who decide their own political destiny.

The Highways and Bridges Tax.

A correspondent of the Columbia Carolina informs that paper that a tax of "eighteen cents on the hundred dollars," for roads, is in course of collection in Lancaster County. Such a tax, for repairing highways and bridges, is expressly authorized by the act of March 9, 1871; the tax being payable in money or labor, at the option of the taxpayer. Where a person neglects to pay the tax in labor, he is liable to pay in money, and the tax is collectible like the State and County taxes.

Take it Back!

The Nation rails at Mr. Greeley for presiding at a supper given to Mr. George Butler, when that unsavory person was appointed Consul-General for Egypt. The Tribune prints the charge, and says that Mr. Greeley did not preside at the banquet, and was not present, but, on the contrary, declined to join the party. The Nation must pick its flint and try again. Something more weighty and quite true will serve next time.

The Ku-Klux Law Unconstitutional.

A correspondent of the Wilmington Journal, writing from Newton, N. C., reports that Governor Vance said that "he had been 'informed by Mr. Beverly Johnson and 'Montgomery Blair that the Supreme Court of the United States had decided the Ku-Klux law unconstitutional in one of the 'South Carolina cases, and that the opinion of the court was purposely withheld until 'after the election.'"

The Public Printing.

Mr. Josephus Woodruff, the clerk of the Senate, writes to the Columbia Phoenix to say that the statements made by Judge Mackey, at Winnsboro, in relation to the public printing of South Carolina, are all false, with a single exception, to wit: "That 'the clerk of the Senate is president of the 'company which does the State printing, 'and the clerk of the House a member.'"

Beggared Beaufort.

The Beaufort Republican says that Beaufort County is afflicted, like Charleston County, with a huge debt, resulting from exorbitant charges for work done, from the cost of the trial justice system, from the unnecessary summoning of witnesses and from the issue of checks, when there is no money in the treasury. No wonder that the people shout for Reform!

No Joke.

A cable telegram announces, with becoming gravity, that the Woolwich grave-diggers have struck for higher wages. Strikes are very well in their place; but this grave-diggers' strike, you know, is running the thing into the ground.

Chickens not yet Hatched.

Mr. Secretary Boutwell is convinced that the Renominationists will carry North Carolina by 10,000 or 15,000 majority. He might as well have said 100,000 or 150,000 while he was about it.

Mr. Wm. D. Evans, of Anderson, challenges Judge Orr to a public political discussion.

CLEAR AND HARMLESS AS WATER.—NATTAN'S ORISTAL DISCOVERY FOR THE HAIR.—A perfectly clear preparation in one bottle, as easily applied as water, for restoring to gray hair its natural color and youthful appearance, to eradicate and prevent dandruff, to promote the growth of the hair and stop its falling out. It is entirely harmless, and perfectly free from any poisonous substances, and will therefore take the place of all the dirty and unpleasant preparations now in use. Numerous testimonials have been sent us from many of our most prominent citizens, some of which are subjoined. In everything in which the articles now in use are objectionable, ORISTAL DISCOVERY is perfect. It is warranted to contain neither Sugar of Lead, Sulphur or Nitrate of Silver, it does not soil the clothes or scalp, is agreeably perfumed, and makes one of the best dressings for the Hair in use. It restores the color of the Hair "more perfectly and uniformly than any other preparation," and always does so in from three to ten days, virtually feeding the roots of the Hair with all the nourishing qualities necessary to its growth and healthy condition; it restores the decayed and induces a new growth of the Hair more positively than anything else. The application of this wonderful discovery also produces a pleasant and cooling effect on the scalp and gives the Hair a pleasing and elegant appearance. Price $1 a bottle.
